

William McKeown is an assistant professor of art history at the University of Memphis. His research focuses on Late Victorian art, with a particular interest in the British reception of the Italian Renaissance. He is currently working on a book (Edwin Mellen Press) examining Ruskin's relationship with Venetian Renaissance painting.