

LUMS Career Contacts

Why help in this way?

Insights gained from an approachable contact within an organisation can make a real difference to our students when it comes to getting work experience, exploring their career choices or making the best impression at interviews.

It is also an opportunity for you to engage with fresh talent and with your Management School.

What does it involve?

As a Career Contact you will be forwarded queries from LUMS students related to your job and the organisation you work for: from the application process to company culture and the responsibilities of your particular role.

Student queries will be emailed to appropriate alumni by LUMS' Careers, Alumni & Employer Relations team. We ask that you respond to a student query when you feel able to help by sharing your experiences and offering advice.

How do I become a Career Contact?

It's always a pleasure talking to Lancaster students. Not only is it good for Rolls-Royce in helping us to secure the best graduate talent but having helped 3 Lancaster students obtain places on the internship and graduate programmes it's nice to know that I've contributed towards them achieving their goal.

Speaking to an alumnus, who has either been on placement with the company that you are applying to or is currently working there, can be a brilliant advantage. I feel it played a fundamental role in helping me to secure my placement at Rolls-Royce.
