GENDER MATTERS

ACADEMY FOR GENDER, WORK AND LEADERSHIP
Our research at Lancaster and the Work Foundation reveals the need to examine not only what gender issues are prevalent for organisations but also how these issues arise and the underpinning reasons for their persistence.

We identify three pressing gender and inclusion challenges for organisations: the gender pay gap, the leadership pipeline and family-based policies. In this brochure we provide illustrations drawn from a range of sources to demonstrate the scope and range of these challenges.

Our research highlights that a major reason for the persistence of these gender inequalities at work is the policy-practice gap. This term explains how the development of fair and equitable ‘gender neutral’ policies within organisations fail to account for gendered social assumptions that can (dis)advantage women’s and men’s everyday practice at work.

In making the policy-practice gap explicit, we illuminate the divide between the good intentions of ‘neutral’ policy and the reality of our own practice, behaviours and perceptions that are influenced by social expectations and cultural norms. This gap results in ineffective impact of policy and limited take-up.

To progress our understanding we need insight from organisations, policy and from research. This think-tank is an opportunity to inspire action for change and to influence impact that will help organisations to work towards more inclusive practice.

We look forward to exchanging ideas and sharing best practices through the development of this network in order to shape more inclusive and diverse businesses.

The impetus for this event was fuelled by recent UK legislation on gender and pay, and media interest in gender issues as well as the continuing under-representation of women in positions of power in organisations.
GENDER PAY GAP

Women’s pay continues to lag behind that of men and this is a global phenomenon. The UK figures reveal a widening gap affected by age, by status and by family responsibilities.

   A global phenomenon.
   GLOBAL AVERAGE ANNUAL EARNINGS

   - $20K
   - $11K

2. Gender Pay Gap
   Persists regardless of education level.
   WOMEN EARN 20% LESS THAN MEN

3. UK Gender Pay Gap
   Demonstrates a gap between women and men managers’ average full-time earnings of 23%.
   PAY GAP £8,964
   - £38,817 average full time equivalent salary for men
   - £29,852 average full time equivalent salary for women

4. UK Managerial Pay Gap (Age and Gender)
   The gender wage differential widens significantly with age: the turning point is somewhere near the age of 35 years.
   MANAGERS WAGE BY AGE AND GENDER

5. Women, Pay and Family
   The arrival of children accounts for the gradual widening of the gender wage gap with age; not working full-time tends to shut down wage progression.

THE LEADERSHIP PIPELINE

Women’s progression in the workplace to leadership positions is persistently problematic. The figures below demonstrate a status gap between women and men: women are more prevalent in junior roles and men are more prevalent in senior roles.

FAMILY-BASED POLICIES

Family responsibilities affect women and men. The UK figures reflect a policy-practice gap where well-intentioned policy fails to be realised in practice.

10 Women, Recruitment and Family
Research reveals that senior decision-makers in business believe it is reasonable to question women about family and their family plans.

- 36% AGREE
- 59% DISAGREE

Is it reasonable to ask women plans about having children in the future during recruitment?
