

Wendy Jones Nakanishi, an American, has been employed full-time at Japanese universities for the past 25 years. She obtained her MA and Ph.D. from, respectively, Lancaster and Edinburgh universities in Britain. Her academic specialty is 18th-century English literature, but she has published extensively on other periods and also writes "creative non-fiction" stories about her life in Japan.