Dr Catherine Wynne is lecturer in Nineteenth-Century English Literature at the University of Hull. She is author of The Colonial Conan Doyle: British Imperialism, Irish Nationalism and the Gothic (2002) and co-editor of Victorian Literary Mesmerism (2006). She has published a number of essays on nineteenth-century literature, photography and film. She has just finished an edition of Bram Stoker's The Watter's Mou' and Conan Doyle's The Parasite for Valancourt Press and is completing a monograph on Bram Stoker. Her current research is on Elizabeth Butler.