Creative Writing
Undergraduate Degrees 2027

Welcome

Creative Writing at Lancaster has a long and distinguished history, dating back to 1970 when we were one of the very first universities to teach the subject in the UK, and we have since continued to lead developments in the field.

Our creative writing tutors are practising authors, many of them award-winning, who will not only help you to develop your writing but will also advise you on professional development, including how to approach publishers and agents.

Many of our graduates go on to publish and broadcast their work, in some cases winning national and international awards.

We cover all of the traditional genres (poetry, prose, short fiction, drama, scriptwriting), as well as newer forms such as song lyric, graphic novel, fantasy, science fiction, memoir, and game writing.

You will be taught through lectures, seminars and workshops, some delivered by visiting professionals in broadcasting or the publishing industry.

We offer a rich literary environment in which to undertake your studies by providing a wide range of extracurricular activities. This includes ensuring that you make the most of the historic city of Lancaster particularly through our partnering with Lancaster's celebrated city-based LitFest. Our students also contribute by coordinating writing groups, performing readings, and editing three journals: Flash, Lux and Errant. Finally, you can, if you wish, undertake a placement year or study abroad at one of our partner universities.

I hope that you will choose to join us.

Professor of Creative Writing

Jenn Ashworth

Our author-tutors are all experienced practitioners and teachers of particular forms and genres. They maintain our long-established tradition of student-centred, workshop-led teaching.

Bailrigg Awards

Thanks to a generous endowment, we can offer some support (up to £150 per award) to creative writing students who are suffering financial hardship. You can apply once or twice a year and, if merited, can receive one award per year.

Made for learning

Lectures

The lectures in the first year focus on a whole range of literary devices and techniques, and how they may be used and developed in your own work. Genre specific concerns – such as tools for effective dialogue, poetic form and stagecraft – are studied alongside broader lectures on craft, such as methods for dealing with writer's block.

In the second and final years, the lectures focus more on the next stages, such as how to approach publishers, where to send your work, and how to make a living as a writer. Lectures by your Lancaster author-tutors are supplemented with presentations by speakers from the creative writing industry on the professional aspects of being a writer.

Workshops and tutorials

Workshops have always been at the heart of Lancaster creative writing. Each workshop is led or curated by one of our author-tutors, with students reading and commenting on each other's work. In addition, your tutor will give generative writing prompts, drawing on contemporary writing in a number of genres, and share professional expertise. Workshops also give you the opportunity to respond to the weekly lectures. You will also be invited to meet with your tutor, one to one in their office, to discuss your work.

Contact hours

You can expect to be in workshops and lectures for around eight hours a week in your first year, depending on which modules you sign up for. In year two and final year, contact time will reduce slightly as you become more independent in your studies. In addition, you will have set reading and assigned writing. All this results in a full, though flexible, study schedule.

Assessment

Creative writing is normally assessed by the submission of a portfolio of creative materials (developed through the workshop plus feedback from the tutor) along with a critical reflection, presentation or podcast that demonstrates an understanding of your use of technique and the literary context(s) of your work. We aim to return coursework to you, graded and with comments from your tutor, within four weeks.

to develop my writing.*

*BA Hons English Literature
and Creative Writing*

Lancaster University

Charlotte, recent graduate

My time studying English Literature and Creative Writing at Lancaster has been the most rewarding three years of my life. From Mansfield Park to The Skeleton Crew, each text I have been able to study has widened my reading and enhanced my love for literature.

The modules I have been able to study throughout my years here have opened my eyes to genres that have both fascinated me and provided me with insights I would not have been able to discover without the help of my wonderful tutors.

Workshopping has been one of my favourite parts of the course. Being able to edit and discuss my peers' work as well as my own in a supportive environment has really pushed me to develop my writing, leaving me confident to pursue a career in writing. Indeed, I leave Lancaster with the knowledge that I will always be supported by my former tutors.

Further opportunities

You will be able to enjoy an extensive range of extracurricular activities and field trips. Some are organised by staff, such as readings from visiting authors in the Castle Quarter, or in association with the city's very own LitFest and Dukes Theatre; others are organised by students, such as open mic nights on campus.

Literary Lancaster

Literature thrives at Lancaster, both on campus and in the city. Here are just some of the free literary activities our students have taken part in this last year:

- Read their work at launch of latest issue of Flash at the University Library
- Attended the opening of the Graphic Novel Special Collection in the University Library
- Made a short promotional video about creative writing at Lancaster
- Participated in the annual Horror Symposium at The Dukes Theatre
- Taken part in weekly games study nights in the University Library
- Read a poem at our annual May Gathering at Lancaster's medieval Priory
- Met visiting literary professionals, including Barry Cunningham, the agent who discovered J K Rowling
- Read their poetry at annual inter-faith GodWords event in the University Chaplaincy
- Read their work at our annual LitFest Creative Writing Student Showcase
- Attended our biannual Dungeons and Dragons event at Lancaster Castle

Student-run journals

We currently have three in-house, student-run, creative writing journals.

Flash is an undergraduate-run online and print journal which publishes fiction, poetry, critical and hybrid work by current Lancaster undergraduates.

Lux is an interdisciplinary journal that seeks to showcase literary critical work from students across the Faculty of Humanities, Arts and Social Sciences.

Errant is dedicated to creative-critical writing and hosts occasional special seminars.

Emily, recent graduate

BA Hons English Literature and
Creative Writing

I have really enjoyed my time studying English literature and creative writing here at Lancaster. You get to experience many different forms of writing and find your voice whilst also being pushed to challenge yourself and grow.

My tutors are very supportive, and they are constantly offering opportunities and events to engage in. During second year I attended many author interviews which really helped to broaden my understanding of my own writing.

During my third year I was able to host a literature event with the help of my tutor. There are many such opportunities for aspiring writers both on and off campus.

Gain real-world experience

We know you want to graduate with confidence and ready to step into your career. That's why we make it easy to incorporate work experience into your time at Lancaster.

Your ambitions are important to us, and we will help you build the skills you need to succeed by offering a range of placement and internship opportunities.

Placement year

You can opt to study your degree with a placement year (also known as a year in industry). On this degree you spend your third year working in a graduate-level, professional job in a sector of your choice before returning to complete your final year at Lancaster. Securing a placement is a competitive process and we support you with personalised coaching and professional guidance provided via a series of preparatory workshops and 1:1 appointments with our Placements Team.

Faculty of Humanities, Arts and Social Sciences Internship Scheme

You'll gain sector-relevant work experience with these internships. Apply in all years of study for opportunities in areas such as public affairs, marketing, business development and events. The scheme offers you an opportunity to gain access to direct work experience while you study.

The Lancaster Award

The Lancaster Award is a non-academic certificate developed in partnership with employers to help you make the most of your time at Lancaster and to demonstrate the skills you have developed along the way.

It is designed to reward the wide range of volunteering activities and placements undertaken by many of our undergraduates. Potential employers increasingly value a profile that includes more than just strong academic results, and the Lancaster Award recognises and validates this.

Comma Press*

Lancaster University

Antoni, recent graduate
BA Hons Film and Creative Writing

The internship made the summer of my second year feel more meaningful and gave me loads of extra confidence going into my final year. It was also really exciting to get an early, insider look at the industry I'm working towards — a whole year ahead of schedule.

I particularly enjoyed the research and brainstorming tasks I was given — for example, coming up with ideas for the format of a new sci-fi anthology from a fresh storytelling angle. The opportunity to work from Comma's Manchester office was also fantastic.

In terms of skills development, time management was number one — there were countless daily tasks, with the work never finishing. The crucial thing was to find a balance.

Curiosity was a big asset in the role and meant I got the most out of this industry crash course. Teamwork and communication were also big.

Your global experience

At Lancaster, literary study incorporates examining literatures in English produced in other anglophone contexts (such as the USA or Australia) and indeed literatures in translation produced in continental Europe. We thus seek to nurture an international mindset and encourage you to make the most of these opportunities to travel as part of your studies.

Study abroad

You can choose to study your degree with a study abroad year. On these four-year degrees, you spend your third year studying at one of our partner universities abroad. Our current partners are in Australia, Canada, Switzerland and the USA, although availability of destinations varies each year.

Living in another country and studying your subjects from a different perspective offers considerable benefit both in terms of your writing and your preparation for life after Lancaster.

Vacation travel

You can also discover the world during your vacations. Our Global Experiences team run vacation travel trips to Malaysia which include a mix of academic study and cultural discovery. These trips range from cultural exchanges to studying sustainable practices with world leading experts.

Overseas summer schools

During summer vacation, you can apply to attend a summer school at one of our international partner universities all around the world. Destinations are varied – from Singapore to Italy, Hong Kong to Canada. Explore where you could go: lancaster.ac.uk/overseas-summer-schools

Lancaster is a wonderfully diverse place.

International student from USA

Lancaster University

Ivy, third year
BA Hons English Literature
and Creative Writing

I find Lancaster to be incredibly welcoming to international students! Throughout my degree, I've been able to get to know a diverse group of literature and creative writing students who do not define me by my American nationality.

When I first arrived, I found that there was a bit of a learning curve regarding how to write essays in the UK, as American schools teach literature subjects very differently. However, this was no problem at all, as I found the English Literature and Creative Writing professors to be incredibly supportive and receptive to any questions that I had regarding essay structures.

As a second-year student going into third year, I continue to appreciate the support my professors provide towards my projects. This year, for one of my creative writing modules, I decided to tackle the realm of nostalgia poetry in unique and interesting ways. Writing about fictional and real experiences in the setting of Texas, I received immense encouragement from my tutor to explore a world and culture I am familiar with in innovative ways.

I also belong to and help run multiple societies on campus, all of which have welcomed me unbiasedly and have been the environments where I have made many wonderful, life-long friends. Lancaster is a wonderfully diverse place with lots of encouragement within each subject area and society as well as unparalleled support from the careers team and all of the amazing, friendly staff.

English Literature and Creative Writing

BA Hons

Combine studying literature from medieval theatre to the contemporary graphic novel with developing your own writing under the guidance of our many celebrated author-tutors.

In your first year you study literature in relation to historical change and as a writer you will focus on developing a portfolio. In addition, you choose further modules - you could do more literary studies and/or creative writing, or you could explore film, linguistics, or the arts.

In your second year you explore both literature's conceptual dimensions and, as a writer, you will continue to focus on the development of your portfolio. In addition, you take Writing Fiction and choose additional modules focusing on either literary study or your own writing in a specific genre.

In your final year you choose from a wide range of literary periods and topics, as well as advancing your writing skills via your portfolio and work within a specific genre.

Enhancing your curriculum

We continually review and enhance our course curricula to ensure we are delivering the best possible learning experience, and to make sure that the subject knowledge and transferable skills you develop will prepare you for your future. Information within this publication with respect to courses and modules is correct at the time of publication, and the University will make every reasonable effort to offer courses and modules as advertised. In some cases, changes may be necessary and may result in new modules or some modules and combinations being unavailable, for example as a result of student feedback, timetabling, staff changes and new research.

Year 1

Core Modules

Introduction to Creative Writing

This module introduces you to the art of creative writing at university level. Supported by both lectures and tutor-led workshops, you will focus on the development of your own portfolio, whether that be poetry, prose, drama, or screenplay.

Literature in Time

This module traces the long history of English literature, exploring a host of authors, including Chaucer, Shakespeare, Milton, the Romantics, and the Victorians, as well as moderns such as Woolf and contemporary figures such as Grace Nichols and Paul Muldoon.

Optional Modules

- World Literatures
- British Cinema
- Re-Making Tradition
- The Arts and Identity
- Understanding Media and Culture
- Foundations of Language

Year 2

Core Modules

Critical Theory

This module explores literary criticism's rich theoretical life via concepts such as the body, race, gender, violence, God, time, death, war and the animal. We consider thinkers such as Marx, Freud and Nietzsche as well as many more recent figures.

Developing Your Writing Practice

This module enables you to develop the art of creative writing at university level. Supported by both lectures and tutor-led workshops, you will focus on the writing of your own portfolio, whether that be poetry, prose, drama, or screenplay.

Writing Fiction

Through workshops, discussions, set reading from a range of contemporary writers and generative writing prompts, you'll develop confidence in creating character, world-building, establishing narrative voice, experimenting with point of view and constructing engaging structures and plot.

Optional Modules

- Critical Practice
- Medieval to Early Modern Literature
- Victorian Literature
- American Literature
- Postcolonial Literature
- Literary Adaptation
- Writing Poetry
- Playwriting
- Taking an Idea and Making it Happen

Final Year

Core Module

Advanced Creative Writing Workshop

This module equips you to advance your writing toward professional levels. Supported by both lectures and tutor-led workshops, you will focus on the writing of your own portfolio, whether that be poetry, prose, drama, or screenplay.

Study abroad degrees

You will study abroad at a partner university in your third year. The grades you achieve at your host university will be translated back and be credited to your Lancaster degree.

Placement year degrees

Your third year is spent in a graduate-level work placement and assessed via assignments reflecting on your experiences.

Combined honours degrees

Our combined honours programmes offer you the flexibility to explore multiple interests within one degree and understand how different subjects interact to enhance your learning. You will develop a range of subject and career specific skills as well as transferable skills essential to all career pathways.

The BA Hons English Literature and Creative Writing is a joint honours degree where your studies are split approximately 50/50 between the two subjects.

You might prefer to study our BA Hons English Literature with Creative Writing, which puts greater emphasis on English Literature and splits the two subjects in a weighting of approximately 70/30.

There is also the option to study creative writing alongside a range of other subjects. You'll study core modules from each subject, which will enable you to develop the essential knowledge needed for both. You will also have the freedom to tailor your degree further by choosing from a selection of optional modules from both disciplines and the wider Faculty.

Creative Writing and Digital Media

This degree empowers you to become an imaginative media investigator, scholar or producer. It provides critical insight into contemporary media and media technologies – exploring politics, power, identity and activism. The degree focuses on craft through a variety of different creative approaches; from more traditional forms (the novel, the poem) to very contemporary forms (the game, the podcast).

English Language and Creative Writing

From the sonnet to the novel and from theatre to video-games, you will hone your craft with support from published writers and academics. At the same time, you will discover how the language you are writing in works by exploring the kaleidoscope of English variation – its regional dialects, storytellers and ways of looking at the world.

Film and Creative Writing

Unlock the art of storytelling by combining film studies with the craft of writing. From early cinema innovations and global film movements to novels and theatre, you'll engage with a broad spectrum of cinematic and literary topics. At the same time, you'll hone your writing and film-making skills across different genres.

Fine Art and Creative Writing

Enhance and develop your creative and critical practices in an environment that explores new connections between these disciplines. You will be taught by artists, novelists, and poets who are both nationally and internationally acclaimed, realising your full potential in a dynamic and interdisciplinary environment.

Theatre and Creative Writing

Explore the dynamic relationship between narrative and performance. You will develop your creative voice by combining theory and practice, supported by our many celebrated novelists, poets and playwrights. You'll also graduate ready to make your mark on the future of theatre and inspired by the creative cultural environment at Lancaster.

Sky, recent graduate

BA Hons Film and Creative Writing

Hi, I'm Sky! I graduated from Lancaster with joint honours in Film and Creative Writing two years ago. I came into the degree thinking I would be more focused on writing short stories and poetry. As I learnt more about film and reading other fellow writers' scripts during seminars, I grew particularly interested in scriptwriting and developed my skills through workshopping ideas with my peers and tutors. There was also an active filmmaking community, where we were able to learn a lot from practice, gaining hands-on experience with the industry-standard equipment at the University.

For my dissertation project, I even directed a short film out of my own script, which I was very proud of. Through Lancaster University's Employment and Recruitment Service, I was able to apply to various internships related to film and writing, from helping with organising a film festival to working at a local cinema. These internships helped me establish a strong CV so I came out of university with invaluable first-hand industry experience. After my degree, I completed a master's at King's College London, and I moved back to Lancaster. I'm now working for Lancaster University as a Research Assistant, using both my filmmaking and writing skills to create a documentary for international research.

Meet our staff

Our author-tutors are experienced practitioners in their specialist areas, including poetry, the novel, short fiction, script writing, creative non-fiction, and new media. They have won multiple national and international awards. Our full portfolio of staff profiles is available on our website.

Professor Jenn Ashworth

Professor of Writing, novelist and short story writer

Jenn Ashworth studied at Newnham College, Cambridge and the Centre for New Writing at the University of Manchester. Before becoming a writer, she worked as a librarian in a prison. Her first novel, A Kind of Intimacy, was published in 2009 and won a Betty Trask Award. On the publication of her second, Cold Light (Sceptre, 2011) she was featured on the BBC's The Culture Show as one of the UK's twelve best new writers. Her third novel The Friday Gospels (2013) and her fourth Fell (2016) are also published by Sceptre. Professor Ashworth has also published short fiction and won an award for her blog, "Every Day I Lie a Little."

Her work has been compared to both Ruth Rendell and Patricia Highsmith; all her novels to date have been set in north-west England. In 2019 she published a memoir-in-essays about reading, writing and sickness called Notes Made While Falling which was a New Statesman Book of the Year and shortlisted for the Gordon Burn Prize. Her latest novel is Ghosted: A Love Story which was shortlisted for the Portico Prize. She lives in Lancashire, is a Fellow of the Royal Society of Literature and is a Professor of Writing, specialising in long prose fiction, the memoir and creative-critical writing.

Dr Oliver Langmead

Lecturer in Creative Writing, novelist and poet

Oliver K. Langmead writes science fiction and fantasy across forms. His books have been nominated for the Philip K. Dick Award, a Hugo award, a British Science Fiction Association award, and a British Fantasy award. His verse-novel, Calypso, was named one of the best Science Fiction books of 2024 by the Guardian and Esquire magazine, and his previous novel, Glitterati, was named one of New Scientist's best Science Fiction books of 2022. City of All Seasons, co-written with Aliya Whiteley, was published by Titan Books in 2025. In late 2018 he was the writer in residence at the European Space Agency's Astronaut Centre in Cologne.

Dr Tajinder Singh Hayer

Senior Lecturer in Creative Writing and scriptwriter

Taj has been writer on attachment at the Leeds Playhouse, writer in residence at BBC Radio Drama Manchester, writer on attachment at the National Theatre and was nominated as one of the Royal Court's 50 promising playwrights in 2006-7. He has written for the Leeds Playhouse, Peshkar, Freedom Studios, Menagerie, and Look Left, Look Right Theatre Company. He won the BBC's Spin new writing award in 2003, and has written for CBeebies, BBC Radio Four, BBC Radio Three, Big Finish Productions and the BBC Asian Network. He won the 2021 Papatango Prize with Ghost Stories from an Old Country. Most recently he has written the Cyclops episode of The Odyssey as part of the National Theatre's multi-part and multi-region adaptation of Homer's epic poem.

Careers and employability

Throughout your degree, we encourage you to gain work experience that will support you in planning your future. A wide range of placement and internship opportunities are available, and we offer the option of a placement year or study abroad year with all of our degrees, which will boost your employability.

Subject-specific support

A degree including creative writing can underpin many careers and, as well as helping our students make good academic decisions while they are with us, we recognise the need to think ahead to life after graduation. We therefore offer writing-specific careers support, including talks and visits from former students of ours now in various worlds of work, including publishing and editing.

Careers support

Both during your degree and after you graduate the University provides dedicated, specialist support. The Careers Service has connections with some of the world's top graduate recruiters, high-growth businesses and employers across many sectors, and organises careers fairs, workshops, and networking opportunities throughout the year. You can be matched with an employer or a previous graduate for one-to-one advice and take part in workshops on topics such as writing a powerful CV, developing a LinkedIn profile or succeeding at psychometric testing. We also have a vast range of online resources as well as an exclusive job search portal.

Graduate destinations

Our graduates have gone on to be authors, poets, screen writers, journalists, new media and content writers, as well as working in the professions listed below.

Our students have gone on to become

- Writers
- Publishers
- Archivists
- Media and PR professionals
- Teachers

Beth Train-Brown, graduated 2022

BA Hons English Literature and Creative Writing

In 2022, I published my first collection of poetry with Renard Press, salmacis: becoming not quite a woman, inspired by a module I studied called 'Poetic Form' led by Paul Farley (Fellow of the Royal Society of Literature) and a module called 'Experimenting with Poetic Genre' led by Eoghan Walls (author of Pigeon Songs).

At the launch event in Lancaster Waterstones, all my tutors and lecturers turned up to show their support. Now, I'm pitching my debut fantasy novel to literary agents and working on a second fantasy novel for my PhD with Oliver K. Langmead (author of Calypso), Ines Gregori Labarta (author of The Three Lives of St Ciarán), and Sara Wasson (author of Gothic Science Fiction) as my utterly brilliant supervisors.

The tutors in creative writing at Lancaster are some of the most supportive, enthusiastic, and creative people I have ever had the pleasure of working with - I wouldn't be the writer I am today without them.
