5. REPORT OF THE VICE-CHANCELLOR

5.1 The Vice-Chancellor provided an oral report, including the following.

(i) In relation to the wider sector: home tuition fees had been frozen for a year; the government response to the Augar report was expected shortly; modifications to the TEF had been announced with new arrangements due to be implemented from September 2022; and the OfS had appointed a new Chair, Lord Wharton.

(ii) In relation to the national emergency engendered by the Covid-19 pandemic: the University had updated its teaching arrangements in line with government expectations; the OfS required institutions to audit teaching provision – this work had already started at Lancaster and results were currently being analysed; students and staff on campus were being offered two Covid-19 tests per week; two goodwill payments had been made to students in University accommodation; and the University was taking further actions to support student welfare and student mental health.

(iii) In relation to internal matters: 2021 admission numbers were down on those from 2020, largely due to a negative impact from the change in tuition fees for EU-based students; uncertainty remained in relation to A-level arrangements for this admissions cycle; and a new University Executive Board had replaced the University Management Advisory Group.

5.2 The Vice-Chancellor drew Senate’s attention to the work of the Joint Faculty Teaching Committee, reminding members that the body had been established to ensure consistency and effectiveness in approving curriculum changes brought about by the national emergency. Senate was reminded that the body had been approved for 2020/21, however, it was now expected that its functionality would need to extend into 2021/22 owing to the continuation of the national emergency. Senate concurred that this would be reasonable and noted that a paper providing details and expected timeframes would come to a later meeting.

5.3 Senate noted the report.

    Restricted and Commercial in Confidence

   10.1 Senate noted that the QAA had launched an Academic Integrity Charter. The Charter responded to what the QAA characterised as the growing problem of academic misconduct in universities, and represented a collective commitment from the UK higher education sector to promote academic integrity and take action against academic misconduct informed by seven principles. Senate received the Academic Integrity Charter.

   10.2 The Dean for Academic Quality noted that the University had been conducting an internal review on the same topic. That review would be able to identify implications of adoption and make recommendations as required.

   10.3 It was noted that any changes to current regulation or expectation would need to be effectively communicated and support provided to both staff and students to ensure compliance. The key role of the Students’ Union in this process was noted.

   10.4 Senate noted its full support for the principles underpinning the Charter and approved the proposal that Lancaster University become a signatory to the QAA Academic Integrity Charter.
